

COVID-19 FAQ

19. We have been told that insurance companies are waiving cost-sharing and deductible amounts for patients. Does this only apply to COVID-19 related conditions?

Date Added: 04/18/20

Answer: It depends on the payer. Currently, Federal Health plans are only waiving cost-sharing for telehealth services, COVID-19 testing-related services and COVID-19 laboratory testing for Medicare Advantage plans. That may change, however.

As for commercial plans, some are implementing cost-sharing and deductible waiver policies – but most are specific to COVID-19 testing or treatment. For example Anthem says that it will cover the cost of COVID-19 testing with no out-of-pocket costs. Additionally, we have heard that Blue Cross Blue Shield Association is waiving cost-sharing for the treatment of COVID-19 through May 31. The American Association of Health Insurance Plans ("AHIP"), has an overview of what some of the different insurers across the US are doing, it can be found here.
